My Dear Grandaughter:

I enjoyed very much your letter of recent date, and hope that you will continue to write me often. I am intensely interested in the prospect of an increase in the number of my great-grandchildren. I have a fine lot of grandchildren, and Elene has certainly started the great-grandchildren list out with a very fine boy. He is such a darling little fellow, always good humored and never fusses.

I wish that there was something that we could do for your dad. He certainly has had all the courage in the world and is deserving of recovery. I think it is remarkable that Blanche has been able to keep up as well as she has because it has been very confining, but I am sure that she considers his recovery as one of the most important things that could possibly happen.

I was interested in your report of that first sign of life, and I realize that it is indeed quite thrilling. I'll bet that Bob can hardly wait until the little one arrives.

Lots of love,
