My dear Mr Simons:- You will never know how very much the lovely red roses meant to me. Chili, as many husbands do, always sent us bought red roses to me on our anniversary. I remember our year, when times were unusually difficult, that he came home with just one perfect rose, which, of course, meant as much as dozens at some other times.

We have given 42 wonderful years together,