

to me. A $1000 bond issued in February, 1944 has a serial number ^{M 18547501 E} immediately following the serial number of one issued in Oct., 1942 M 18547500 E; and 3 $100 bonds issued in Nov., 1942 have numbers C 14365 * 8590 E immediately following the numbers
C 14365 8591 E
C 14365 8592 E

of two issued in May 1942 C 14365 8588 E
C 14365 8589 E. We thought there might be some mistake in copying. (Bud tells me now that they probably were reissued in consecutive numbers and that there is nothing wrong - so just forget it, please.) I am enclosing an item for you to read and to give to Dolph. I thought you both would enjoy it. It was in yesterday's Public Pulse column of the Omaha World Herald:

I'm going to write a few words to Dolph too now.
^{How would you like to have company, the Johnsons, next week-end Feb. 11th and 12th? We would try to see the Roads of Love, K.U.-Nebraska basketball game.}

Dorothea:

Dear Dolph;

Lance is planning to write you a letter; but in case he doesn't, he had a big surprise Saturday night. In a conversation he had with Tip Sargo at the ice hockey game in Omaha, he discovered that the announcer knew you and I believe he said had interviewed you on the radio.

We see that John is doing very well in basketball; and we all enjoy the J.W. sport page.

Give my love to the family.
^{Love,}
Dorothea
