

November 8, 1951

Dearest Grand Dad,

I've intended to write you ever since we returned from our vacation - but the days have just flown by - and now it's already November.

Bob and I had a delightful time in New Mexico. We stayed in Santa Fe for three days - and of course did a lot of sight seeing. Our trip to Taos was quite interesting as we happened to go up the day of their fall festival. The Indians came from all over the South west and had all sorts of wares to sell.

We did little shopping in New Mexico as we knew things would be much cheaper in Old Mexico.

On the drive Southward, we stopped at Almagordo to see the White Sands and then drove past the ^{Rocket} proving grounds.
