Dear Marily and Bob:

I expect it seems good to be home again, although you undoubtedly enjoyed your visit with the home folks, and I envy you the visit with Eileen, Carl and Wayne. I haven't seen Wayne now since the football season.

In your letter you mentioned that you could not find the dye. I asked Mr. Farris and he has it on file. If you would like to have us send it to you we will do so. Otherwise we will keep it until you need to have it used again.

I think I wrote you that I read through a copy of The Link and found a good deal of interest in it. It is too bad that you hadn't learned of your Tulsa date before you made the extra drive home. I am very happy that you are enjoying the home life with Owen and Marie, Eileen and Carl, and with the home folks. I think that our family was perhaps a little unusual in maintaining family life and we enjoyed it very much. Now, out of five children, Grayce and I are the only two still living.

I keep on driving and try to always have my car under control but I read of so many accidents in which elderly people are injured. There was a bad collision at 23rd and Haskell Avenue. That is where the road turns south to Wakarusa. One car was said to have been going 60 miles an hour, and a car at that speed can strike quite a blow.

I drove out to the cemetery yesterday. It seems to be kept very nicely, and I found in place all of the wreaths which I had put out a few months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Parrish who are staying with me are very thoughtful and look after me very nicely. Tonight she is entertaining a group of girls at our home and has asked me to give them a talk on Kansas, which I shall try to do.
