Dear Janet and Mac,

The flowers you sent for mother are beautiful. I went out to the cemetery yesterday with Dolph and Marie, and they placed some very pretty flowers on the grave. As the prospect was for cold weather last night, we left the flowers that you sent at home, where they stand as much in memory of Gertrude as they would be out in freezing weather at the cemetery. However, if the weather moderates, I shall be glad to take them out.

As Dolph has told you, I am planning on coming out for Thanksgiving with Mike.

I do not know of anything of special importance to tell you. Everything seems to be moving along as usual at home.

My attention was called today that resolutions have been passed to pave Vermont Street from Indian Avenue south. This would take care of the mud hole caused by the development to the south, but the expense will be almost entirely mine. The property to the east belongs to Haskell Institute, and whether the city can pave and charge a portion of it to the government or not I am not sure.

I haven't seen Mike for some little time, but presume that he is busy with his studies. It is mighty nice to have you drop in on me from time to time and I appreciate it.

Lots of love,

Dad
