Dear Janet,

I have just read your letter of Friday afternoon. I drove down to the office this morning on my own, the first time I think in a couple of weeks. Everything is moving along nicely and I certainly appreciated having you with me so much. My good luck was Mac's bad luck, but I believe he was willing to have you look after your old Dad a little while, anyway.

We, too, have had rains every day or night. While I slept through last night's rain, I understand we had rather of a hard rain.

Everything seems to be OK at the office and I shall not try to be down long.

It was good not only to see you, but Mike and Mary Beth. Give my love to Mac.

Lovingly,
