PERSONAL GREETINGS

My Dear Simons: I should like to join my voice with many others in sending sincerest congratulation on your long Editorial career. You have served well your day and generation, having, as you have had, thro the years an unusual medium for communicating your influence and spirit.

It has been a pleasure to have known you thro most of your 60 years and I have deeply appreciated the privilege of being associated with you in many good causes.

You have my very best wishes for you in the years ahead-- which I hope will be many.

Cordially,

W. A. Beckett
