Dear Blanche,

I have your card of last Friday and I doubt if spring weather is prevailing right now.

We have not had a severe winter, but we have had some snow, rain and freezing.

You are one of the most regular of my correspondents and I am always very happy to hear from you. I, too, am planning in a general way to attend Dolph, Jr.'s wedding, but I realize that it will have to depend upon how I happen to feel at that time. As careful as I can be, it is not too difficult for me to get upset, which is not good for me.

Everything is moving along as usual at home. Mr. and Mrs. Scott have more or less company, and on the whole I am glad of it because it changes the scene just a little bit.

The 40 acres to the south of us is badly torn up now with giant earth-working machines, but it promises to be an attractive residential section in the near future.

I went to Kansas City a day or two ago and saw little Jimmy Medlock, the youngest of my great grandsons. He has a growth of about four inches of dark hair, which largely stands on end, but he has beautiful blue eyes, of such a nature that I do not believe they will change. Mary Beth makes a nice little mother, and they have a comfortable flat not far from where Blanche Reineke used to have her photographic studio.

I have lately heard from all of the children and they are well.

Lots of love,

Dad
