

THE HERALD OF FREEDOM
Lawrence, Saturday, Feb. 7, 1857

Pottawatomie Creek, Jan. 17th. - In passing south, before coming to the Pottawatomie Creek, we passed the ruins of several Free State houses; amongst them the distinguished Capt. John Brown's and his sons', John Brown, Jr., and Jason Brown. These were all intelligent and enterprising men, and came to Kansas to build up homes for themselves, improve the country and save it to freedom.

Old Capt. Brown has been a man of distinction, in the East. He was of the firm of Perkins & Brown, in Ohio, who took the premium at the World's Fair in London, and also in New York, on the finest and best wool. They were known through the country as importers of the best Spanish, French and Saxony sheep.

Capt. Brown traveled over Europe, and examined the various woollen manufactories, for the purpose of benefiting the wool growers and manufacturers in America. In other branches of agriculture he also took leading premiums. His sons brought with them to Kansas imported stock of Devonshire and Durham cattle.

One of them had established here a fine vineyard, and had in thrifty growth fine varieties of grapes. He also had a nursery of the most choice varieties of fruits.

These were not the men to be intimidated or subdued; of course they must be destroyed.

John Brown, Jr., was arrested by the U. S. Dragoons, for treason, for offering to defend the town of Lawrence on the 21st of May last, and was marched in chains, with several others, for thirty miles, in one of the hottest days in June, without food or water. He was then confined in the U. S. camp for nearly four months, without even an indictment against him.

Jason Brown was also arrested, but was afterwards set free.
