

We learned then what it meant to our boys, and to the homes of our nation, present and future, to have dens of vice and swarms of vampires surrounding our military camps and crowding themselves into the very faces of our young men.

We learned that at a time when England ~~ne~~ sorely needed that 200,000 of her soldiers were inhospitable with social disease, incapacitated for work, a burden to the nation and a menace to its future.

So America profited by what she had learned and it is to the credit of our Congressman Ed C. Little that the famous Zone bill was passed which has protected our boys from pollution and has sent them across the water proud of their morals as well as of their morale.

~~This~~ The application of the Zone law is being amplified to cover camps of 250 men for thirty days. We are making headway. The world is going to learn of American efficiency in the war and how that efficiency was maintained.

One of the rewards of peace will be temperance. Never again will the liquor interests of the world be permitted to debauch mankind as it has in the past.
