Mexico Trip

October 3, 1928.

Mr. W. C. Simons,
President The Journal-World,
Lawrence, Kans.

My dear Mr. Simons:

Your two good letters have reached me in due course of time and I shall ask you to blame me, alone, and not Uncle Sam's mail boys for the delay in reply. At the time your first letter reached me, giving me possible leads to jobs, I was contemplating a post with The Sun as somehow I had a hunch that I could get a fairly decent reporter's berth and at the same time get a side-line of specialization---to be more specific in the dramatic criticism department.

But a young man, who was in the Latin-American department of the A. P. was leaving for Mexico, and with the aid of his friendship and other contacts, I was duly accepted to fill his shoes. So I'm now a full-fledged member of the foreign department and more specifically, Havana editor. While the position is new to me, and rather advanced, I am deeply interested in the work and feel that I have really struck a bonanza that will eventually lead to something.
