Dear Mr. Neff:

Your circular letter of the 20th arrived on March 21st, the date on which our youngest child, a fine boy of thirteen, passed away after an illness so short that we were unable to do anything. So far as we can tell, his death resulted from a deadly hangover from a light case of flu about six weeks before. You can readily understand why your letter was not answered.

We were sorry that you had to withdraw from our party and trust that a return to a lower altitude resulted in a rapid improvement.

Sincerely yours,

WCS-HM
