

This chair was a part of the original furnishings of the Free State Hotel--The Eldridge House--erected by the New England Immigrant Society in 1855, and was the only article of furniture<sup>saved</sup> when the hotel was burned in 1856 by sheriff Jones, May 21, 1856.