Dear Mr. Fall:

We are in receipt of the enclosed card regarding an invoice for a genealogy written by Mr. W. C. Simons entitled From The Landing of The Pilgrims in 1620.

Mr. Simons passed away on May 15, however, it was his desire at the time this was sent to you that it be on a no charge basis. He was pleased that you desired it for the library.

Yours very truly,

Mrs. Kathryn Drought 1417 North Blackstone Street Jackson, Michigan

Dear Mrs. Drought,

It is with much sorrow that I write to tell you of Father's death early on the morning of Thursday, May 15, at Lawrence Memorial Hospital. He had not been well for sometime and had not been at the office for six weeks, although his spirits were good and he was happy with his life. On the late afternoon of Wednesday I had a good visit with him at his home. He was seated in the living room and was in excellent spirits. I left just before dinner time and he went into the dining room and ate an excellent supper.

In the last two years he has had eight or ten heart disturbances, and about eight o'clock he spoke of an uncomfortable feeling in his chest. The doctor was called and about 10:30 Father was taken to the hospital in an ambulance and put in an oxygen tent. His death occurred at twenty minutes after midnight.

He was a good man in every way and his life should serve as an inspiration for all of us. The funeral services were held on Saturday, May 17, at 11:00 am at the First Baptist Church. I am told the floral tributes were the largest and most beautiful the community has ever seen and the large church was packed to capacity with many officials and associates coming from outside Lawrence. His passing was apparently reported in nearly all of the metropolitan papers of the country and beautiful editorials about his life have appeared in numerous publications in the last few days.

I know that Father cherished your friendship and affection.

Most sincerely,

Dolph Simons

Mrs. Don A. Freeman Route 6 Brainerd, Minnesota

Dear Aunt Grace,

I have just finished writing to Russell Wickey and Mrs. Kathryn Drought who were the only kinfolks I think that should be advised of Father's death outside of the immediate family. If you think of others, please let me know.

I think it was wise for you to not attempt to make the trip to Lawrence for the services. You and Don are very dear to us and I wouldn't want you to do anything which might be injurious to your health.

The funeral service was a beautiful tribute to Father. I am told the number of floral pieces was the largest the community has ever seen, and the Baptist Church was packed to capacity which is an unusual situation in these times particularly for a man eighty years old who has lost many of his personal friends through death in recent years. The service lasted half an hour with organ music and one solo, scripture reading, a prayer, and a sermon by Rev. Fetter, which was a little long but which I am sure was the sort of thing that Father would have approved.

The four men from the office are planning to leave here about Friday noon of this week, May 23, expecting to arrive at the cottage sometime after midnight. If the key can be put above the kitchen door they should be able to make out very nicely.

Ernie Pontius, who was there last year, will be in charge of the group and I have asked him to tell you everything that you might want to know about Father's last illness and what has transpired since then. Ernie was one of his favorites, and Ernie contributed much pleasure to Father's life in recent years. He is a genuine fellow and I hope you will feel free to visit with him almost as if he were a member of the family.

I have not written you many details because I realize you have received most of that information through recent issues of the Journal-World. It pleased me that most of the metropolitan papers in America carried news stories about Father's passing, and the complimentary editorials in other newspapers have been numerous. Before too long I plan to publish a dignified memorial booklet about Dad for members of the family and close personal friends. Perhaps there would be not more than 50 copies printed because I would not want it to receive circulation beyond those who really love him.

Please feel free to write me about any information or questions. I hope you will consider me as the closest possible kinfolk you could have beyond your fine husband.

Much love,

Dolph Simons

Dear Mr. Simons:

15

I should like to express my deepest sympathies to you and your family. Today I was informed by my parents of your fathers death.

As I read the narrative of his life in the "Journal World", my memories reflected back on the associations that I had with your father during my "growing years" in the Lawrence Community.

During the years that passed bewteen "those Cordley school days" and an enjoyable Sunday dinner visit at the Phi Delt House a few years ago, I developed a deep respect for Mr. Simons.

My father and I often spoke of him as, "the fine example of the Christian Gentleman" Indeed he was; a gentleman who always found time to be interested in grade school boys, high-school boys, and college boys.

Certainly his spirit of integrity, enterprise, and kindness will have lasting influence on the Community that surrounded him.

Sincerely,

Dear Fred:

I appreciate very much your good letter of May 23 with the kind words about my father. He was a good man and should forever serve as an inspiration to his children and grandchildren.

Marie was with Dolph and Pan at the time father died, and she flew home with Dolph, who was here for a little more than 24 hours before returning to California, I went back with Marie on the train about a week ago and we drove the car back that she left out there, arriving home night before last. Dolph seems to be very happy with his work. He has a lot to do, but it is interesting. You probably know he is public information officer for the helicopter facility near El Toro.

I hope you are well and as happy as could be expected. I know you would much rather be a civilian again, and I hope that time will not be too far away.

With all good wishes, I am,

My Dear Dolph:

Even at this late date, I want to extend my deepest sympathy at the passing of your father. I remember so well the afternoon we were fishing together and the many interesting things he told me of his early experiences in Lawrence, and Kansas. He has left you a heritage of which you may be justly proud.

I was at the lake for a couple of weeks the middle of May, getting the place in shape and doing some early fishing. However, the latter was not very profitable. Needed to have Johnnie with me.

We are leaving Friday to go back for the summer, picking the Calhoun children up in Kansas City, to take them with us. Bill and Dorothy are going on to New York and will probably not be up before the first of July. Then, not to stay very long. As you probably know, they have purchased a new home in Emporia that they will move into September 1st, and Dorothy is all excited about that.

We will be looking forward to seeing you. On your arrival at Gull Lake, be sure to come over to see us as soon as possible.

With very best regards to you all, in which Irene joins, I am

Lawrence Journal World,

Lawrence, Kansas.

Dear Editor--Seeing an item in the Journal a few days ago relative to the illness of my old friend, W. C. Simons, I am reminded that I cut his my "printer's eye teeth" under mhm supervision. That was back inthe days when the World was located in the basement of the old Bowersock Theatre building which stood at the northeast commer of Seventh and Massachussetts street. The paper was owned and publishing by Mr. Simons and his brother-in-law, the late J. Leeford Brady. In those days the World was printed on an old cylinder press and the folding and mailing was all done by hand--and that was my first job in the printing trade. As I remember, they printed a daily and a weekly. Also, at that time there were other papers in Lawrence--the Weekly Gazette, published at the rear of the old First National Bank building by the late Charley Finch; my old Friend Henry Alback was also in business and of course there was the Journal. Power for the old Journal was furnished by a cable line from the Bowersock dam. Later the World and Journal were consolidated under the same management as the World was then under.

In those early days of the World things were not always as rosy as they could have been and I can ramember that sometimes the help had to wait a few days for their pay -- a portion of which came from the dalary of Mr. Brady's wife, who was teaching school in Eudora.

All tupe composition was done by hand--there were two regular hand compositors who set up the straight matter. One was a young lady and me, a youngster, suddenly was smitten by the puppy love bug but I was never able to get very far with her. She was a deaf mute! I have a distinct recollection of many humorous situations that developed while I was with them. Their pressman was an old colored man named Henry Spivey and I well remember one day when I was laying around in the back of the shop visiting with Henry 4/4 when Mr. Simons called back "Clayte, what are you doing?" "Helping Henry," I quickly replied; and then came the lightning as W. C. shouted back "Henry, what are you doing?" and just as quickly Henry replied "Nawthin."

It was in this office #44#f# I got my first baptism in politics. Mr. Brady was the politician of the firm and many a time I heard him and some of the powers that be plotting their strategy on the next election. Mr. Brady was a most prolific editorial writer and could turn out the copy by the ream. He was about the fastest man I ever saw at a typewriter--he would close his fists and then with outstretched fore finger of each hand he would make that typrewiter literally fly. He was the world's best two-finger operator who ever slipped a piece of paper in a typewriter: From the old World shop to the modern and up-to-date plant of the present day Journal World is a long step imma and this progress is largely through the efforts and work of Colly Simons. What he has today he got by the hard route and the Wouranl World will stand as a monumnet to him long after he has departed this mortal world.

Would you please extend to him my best wishes and sincere hope that he will s oon be able to be back at the old stand?

Sincerely Yours, CLAYPON WYATT.

Mr. Clayton Wyatt Valley Falls, Kansas

Dear Wyatt:

I am sorry your good letter of April 21 recalling your early days on the Daily World did not come to father's attention before he died. The letter arrived when I was in the east for some newspaper meetings, and when I returned I waited for a good time to read and enjoy the letter with father. That time didn't come and as you know, he passed away within a short time after that on May 15.

I have heard my father speak many times of his friendship for you and of his appreciation for the large amount of business that you have sent our way through the years. He was a good man and should serve as an inspiration for his children and grandchildren. He lived a good, long life and fortunately was spared much suffering at the time of his last critical illness.

Father was strong for the Schaal family and I know it would make him very happy if he could know that you had written of your high regard for him. I don't see Walter as often as I would like. He is a first-class citizen and I wish we had more like him here in Lawrence.

Mr. Dolph Simons Journal--World Lawrence, Kansas

Dear Dolph

Since about mid April Hattie and I have been in California. It was partly a business trip, and we also looked at a newspaper in which I have been interested, and a house in a spot where my wife thinks she would like to live. Nothing definite has happened, but there still is a chance one or both eggs may hatch.

What really inspired this letter was my discovery when I began to read the copies of Editor and Publisher and Publishers Auxiliary I had missed, that your father had gone to his reward while I was away. Usually that is a trite phrase, but in the case of your father I think that is exactly what happened.

When I came to Salina in my early twenties, with nothing much but ambition, he was one of the older men who steered me on prices, methods, and a host of other subjects on which I was no better posted than hst is one government -- begging your pardon for peferring to the president in lower case. Even when J. L. Brady located here and became my competitor, and I tried to avoid embarrassing him, he continued to answer questions and letters, and to give me the benfit of his experience, and his good solid horse sense.

Nothing I can say is going to help you or the other members of the family very much, but as you get the opportunity I hope you will passmon to them my deep and sincere sympathy. To my way of thinking he was a GOOD citizen, probably the highest compliment that can be paid to any man. Heaven help the country that continues to lose men like him, for not too many of them are being produced to take his place. As time has gone by I can see his handiwork being demonstrated by the actions of his son, and I am proud to have been a friend of both of you. Again I express my rggret at my seeming neglect, but I assure you it was unintentional. With warmest personal regards to Marie and you, and all the family from Hattie and me,

Sincerely

Dear Mrs. Gregg:

I have your card of June 3 addressed to my father. I regret to inform you he passed away early on the morning of May 15. He had been in failing health more than two years but remained fairly active until about six weeks before his death. It was a heart condition and he was up and around the house and cheerful, as usual, on May 14. After dinner he became slightly ill and as his condition worsened, he was taken to the hospital about 10:45 pm and put in an oxygen tent. His death occurred at 12:20 am.

Funeral services were held here at the Baptist Church on Saturday, May 17 and burial was in the family lot at Oak Hill cemetery east of Lawrence. All of his children and grandchildren attended the service. He was a good man and should forever serve as an inspiration to his family.
