Dear Mr. Simons:

I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of the officers and members of Sigma Delta Chi to offer my sympathies on the recent passing of your father.

Your father, as an honorary member of our fraternity, was always a great friend and leader to us. On many occasions he opened his home as well as his heart to SDX, and we always felt that he was one of us.

So it was with great sorrow that we learned of his passing. We are all proud and honored that he was associated with our chapter.

I have just learned of the passing of your father and wish to extend to you my sincere sympathy. I well recall his ill health at the time we were together at the American Assembly a year ago.

Your father certainly has had a tremendous influence over the years, not only over the Lawrence community, but even beyond the boundaries of the state. I seem to learn of more cases each year where some now famous journalist got his start under his supervision.

My dear Dolph,

I did not learn until my return to the city of the loss of your father. Dick Williams informed me this afternoon that he had been ill for some time, but even though you must have been somewhat prepared, we are never ready for the loss of a loved one.

Unfortunately, there is very little friends can do or say to be of real assistance, but Maxine and I want you to know we are thinking of you, and that you and your family have our deepest sympathy.

Dolph,

Sorry I'll be out of town for the funeral tomorrow. Certainly wish there were some other way I could manage it. But knowing W.C., he'd probably be highly displeased if he thought the staff let up for even a minute.

Seriously, though, one fellow said something yesterday that sort of rang true to me. He said that if there were just a few more fellows like your dad to offset the mad dogs in the newspaper business then there'd seldom be any reason to criticize that profession. The fellow pointed out that one fellow like W. C. could undo a multitude of wrongs but simply going ahead to put out a good product, as he has done for 60 years. I wasn't acquainted with those early papers, of course, but I knew the man too well to ever think he'd ever be satisfied with anything but his best.

I'm personally sorry about your father's death for your sake and I certainly used to enjoy talking with him. He was a pretty refreshing personality. I guess the best thing I can say about him is that I've talked with fellows who've disagreed with some of the things he did or said. But I've never yet met a man who didn't respect and admire W. C. to the core. He makes & fellow doubly proud he's associated with this organization.

LAWRENCE 19 May 1952

Dear Dolph:

Among so many expressions of sympathy and tributes for your father, mine will probably add nothing unique, but

I was privileged to know your father but slightly personally and only over the short period of six years, but

Of everything that was written and said about him since his death, none was overstatement.

Nobody can take a good look at Lawrence without seeing the many living monuments to his hard work and determination to scrap for what he thought right.

Men aren't cast in his mold anymore. But somehow I hope that there are men and women abroad today with the same industriousness, vision and determination -- if not, sad times face us.

It is remarkable that almost on the eve of his death your father was plugging for a better city. Among the few things Lawrence lacks is a decent city park. And your father didn't just talk or think about it ... he did something about it.

Sincerely,

M. Tom Yoe

I read with sorrow about the death of your Father.

While we all realize living to the ago of 80 is a pretty fair shake it is nevertheless difficult for those left behind, particularly on you because of your closeness to your Dad.

I came in contact with your Father since 1943 in connection with the William Allen White Foundation Meetings and we have had many fine visits.

This is to tell you that we are thinking of you at this time and send you our condolence.

Dear Dolph:

THIS LETTER IS

FROM THE

CHICAGO

Sorry to read of your dad and pal's passing on to his reward. I recall my own dad's passing twenty-six years ago, actually it seems like twenty-six minutes. He died in my arms, aged 43, so much died within me that moment, not only my dad but my pal of pals was gone.

Then came the throng of people with the hackneyed phrase "Sorry for your Trouble" — well meant, but empty, who could understand? This phrase I pray will not haunt you for it does not fit into your scheme of things. It is not apropos for your dad lived a full life, beating the proverbial three score and ten, and, like Christ, at the end could say "It is Consumated". Yes, at eighty, after all the trials, tribulations, heartaches and joys, man grows so very tired and happiness reigns when he can say to the Almighty "It is Consumated", cast off the shackles of earth and go peacefully to his reward.

I can't help but feel seriously that all the good members of the Fourth Estate, headed by your state's beloved William Allen White, were on hand to welcome your dad into the special section of Heaven reserved for those with a record of unusual accomplishment on earth.

Your heritage is great -- your loss an asset for your grand old dad has reached his goal at last and forever and ever happiness is his.

Most Sincerely,

P. S. We called George Hollingbery right away and he was shocked, having been out of town and not catching last night's paper.

I know that anything I can say will not ease the ache in your heart, but tome he was the most wonderful person that I have ever met. If we could give as much of ourselves as he did I am sure we would have a much fuller and richer life. I cannot help but feel that his death is a great loss, not only to his family, but to a very great many people, whom he had come in contact with. I know that he took a great deal of pride in having a son like you Dolph, that was able to carry on the business that he had put so much into. Dear Dolph,

I just read of the passing of your father, and want to say how sorry I am.

I remember you telling me he had not been so well for sometime, and with his advanced age, know you knew he might not be with you for long, but at the same time, I know it is always a shock when it comes time for them to lay their burden down.

Please accept my sympathy.

Sincerely,

My dear Dolph:

The respect shown your illustrious father by the Lawrence citizenry and by the fine cross-section of the State citizenry since his death should be a lasting heritage to you and the other members of his family.

I had always appreciated the friendly interest and good counsel which I could get from your father at any time.

You have my deepest sympathies in the loss of your exemplary parent and our exemplary citizen.
