Forty-three ladies were present with Mrs. George Allerher, Mrs. George Hatke, both over, out of town members. The green and white color scheme was carried out in beautifully appointed refreshment tables, a centerpiece of beribboned Easter eggs bearing the inscription, "O.T. Auxiliary with a large pink bunny standing guard and two tall white tapers in green grass nests. Mrs. George Hatke was later awarded the bunny as a lucky chair prize.

FOREST CONSERVATION IS PROGRAM TOPIC OF BEATTIE STUDY CLUB

Fifteen members were present at the meeting of the Beattie Study club at the home of Mrs. Joe Chase in Summerfield, March 31, which was held one day early to give members an opportunity to attend the state convention of the Kansas Federation of Women's clubs in Topeka Tuesday and Wednesday.

After the business meeting the program on Conservation of Forestry was presented by Mrs. Ralph Studer, who stated that the nation's forests are being grown as fast as they are being depleted.

"We have been growing up our growing up and failing to make provisions for new growth," he pointed out. "The growing of new trees is less than what a prosperous, progressing nation is likely to need."

Although the present forest situation is serious, it is by no means hopeless, as forests are a renewable resource with proper management and protection they can be made to produce continuous crops.

But if America is to be assured of abundant and permanent timber supplies, positive action will have to be taken on a nation-wide scale to raise annual timber growth to an adequate level.

More than 10,000 products of wood have been listed, and wood enters in some degree into the manufacture, processing, or delivery of practically all other products.

The arch-destroyer of forests is fire. About nine-tenths of these fires are caused by human carelessness or indifference, through such agencies as campers, smokers, debris burners, and railroads, said Mrs. Studer.

To protect the public interest, the Department of Agriculture and the Forest Service have recommended a three-point National-forest conservation program. 1. Expansion of public aid to private forest landowners. 2. Public acquisition of a large acreage of forest land now in private ownership. 3. Effective public regulations of timber cutting and other forest practices to stop further destruction and keep forest lands reasonably productive.

The hostess served delicious refreshments at the close of a pleasant afternoon.

How to have a winning TELEPHONE PERSONALITY

by EMILY POST

We're often judged by the way we use telephone service. Good telephone technique and good telephone manners are important to a winning personality... and help you get the most from your telephone service.

A friend of mine who travels a lot tells me she has found a way to improve her telephoning on trips.

"It saves a lot of trouble," she says, "to have a list of the numbers you may want to call with you. I carry mine in a handy little book. And you would be surprised how much faster long distance calls go through when you give the operator the number you want."

Incidentally, the telephone business office will be glad to give you a pocket-size book—handy for use at home, office, or when traveling—to list your long distance numbers in, and it's free for the asking.

My mail shows that many people have friends who use an extra-loud voice over the telephone. They ask, "Does shouting over the wire help?"

No, quite the contrary. A loud voice is always unpleasant and does not mean that you can be heard better. A special effort to talk clearly and distinctly into the transmitter makes it easier for your friends to understand you, and it brings rewards in the form of a more pleasant telephone personality.

A correspondent who lives in the country on a party line asks, "Should emergency calls be given special priority?"

I think the obvious answer is "Yes, of course." Don't you? After all, it's just plain good manners to let your party line neighbor use the telephone when some special need arises. And then, too, the more consideration you show, the more consideration you will receive.
