Dear Mc:

Your Wall Street Journal subscription will expire March 6th and we can make another exchange on the same basis as last year. Would you like to have the paper for another year? If so, please let me know soon so the exchange can be completed before the expiration date. There will be no charge to you because we are glad to do this.

I saw mother and dad as they drove in early this afternoon and they both report having a wonderful visit with you all. Sorry to hear that you have not been feeling first class lately.

Love to all,
