CAP". XXVIII.—HOW AN HUNTER SHULD GOO IN QUEST BYTWYNE YE PLAYNES AND THE WOODE 1

his mark and vnbicast as bifore is saide.

CHAP. 28.—HOW AN HUNTER SHOULD GO IN QUEST BETWEEN THE PLAINS AND THE WOOD1

Also a man may go in quest in feeldes, in corn, Also a man may go in quest in the fields in corn, in vines, in gardynes and in ober placis where be in vines, in gardens, and in other places, where hertis gon to here pasturis, in be feldes out of be the harts go to their pasture in the fields out of woode, and he must go forb wele erly so bat he the wood, and he must go forth right early so that may see be erthe and wel juge and if he see ony he may look at the ground and judge well, and if bing bat likeb hym he may breke bowis and lay he sees anything that pleases him he can break boughs and lay his mark and cast round as before

¹ Another clerical mistake, a wrong title having been given to this chapter. I have substituted the correct