enough for you todoo that is his Master, you intended to trust Sr. Arthure Sabage who I holde to boe an honest gent but not Sr. Arthure Gorges.

Raw: All this is but one Answeare of Cobhams I heare noe other, to this hee now subscribed nor acknowledged it, I beseech you my Lords let Cobham bee sent for, charge him on his soule on his Allegeance to the King, and if hee affirme it I am guiltie.

L: Cecill. If it be the Answeare of my Lord Cobham that is the Evidence against you must it not bee of force without his subscription, I desire to bee resolved by the Judges whether by the lawe it bee not a forcible Argument of Evidence.

Judges. My Lord it is.

Raw: The King is sworne at his Coronation in omnibus Judicijs suis Equitate non rigore legis observande by the rigour and extremitie of the lawe it may bee forcible Evidence.

L: Chiefe Justice. If it be not the Extremitie of the lawe, but the Justice of the lawe els when a man hath made a plaine Confession by paper, a man may bee brought to retract it anyone.

Raw: If my Lord you may vse Equitie.

L: Chiefe Justice. That is from the King, you are to have Justice from us.

The lawe is if the matter bee proved, the Judge Jury they must finde you guilty, and Cobhams Answeare is not onely against you there are other things sufficient.

Now that Sr. Walter Rawleigh is sati- L: Cecill.
-sfied that Cobhams subscription is not ne-cessary, I goe on and pray the Atturney.

Good Mr. Attorney bee patient and give Raw:
mee leave.

An vnnecessary patient is but a hinderance L: Cecill.
lett him goe on with his proofes and then refell
him.

My Lord I would Answeare particularly, Raw:
If you would have Cobhams confes- L: Cecill.
-sion and pay you shall have it.

And there you sub and pay would grind him.

Here the Clerke of the Crowne Office Cobhams read Cobhams bis written in July, which bis.
was to the effect of his former Examinacon, further saying, all I have disclosed all to acquit mine Sonne but to burthen my Conscience.

Read Copie of the Confession the 6th of June, how saith hee was offered 1000. Crownes to bee in this Accord.

Brookes Confession.

There hath been passed saith hee
