The Lord Sanquiers
arraignmt and confession touchinge the murdringe of Turnor the Fencer in the Whitefriars who was executed on the xxixth of June Anno dñi 1612 beinge St Peters day at Westminster.

Lord Sanquiers Confession

My Lords tʰat wᵗʰ at my arraignmᵗ the other day I pleaded vnto the Dombrid, was not tʰat I could not bee soe vnworthie to denye any sillable I had formerlie confessed before soe honble assemblie, nor out of any desire tʰat any thinge might bee concealed wᵗʰ might serve for evidence to convicte me of the fowle fact whereof I now stand arraigned, and wherein I formerlie gave and nowe doe most willinglie and penitentlie confesse my selfe to bee guiltie: My purpose then was to gaine time for the disposinge of some temporall affaires, and for the better sparinge of my bodie for ever departinge from this bodie; for tʰat I could longe live, I neither can expect nor much desire.
And now my Lords yᵗ tʰat it maie
