former Juror, in an insolent and contemptuous manner, at wch the Lords took much offence, and thereupon gave order for the present Committment of him to the prison of the Marshalsea./

(4) To the fourth Juror his dep.t saith that the Conference wch the Lords then had, wch the dep.t Chambers was concerning the payment of Port-Customs and other duties of marchandize, and the words were spoken by him upon that occasion and no other, and further the cannot depose.

(1.) To the first Juror his deponent saith, that he was present attending the Lords and other of his ma.ties Privy Councell at the Councell Board at Hampton Court on the 28.th day of September last past when the defendt Richard Chambers amongst some other marchants was sent for and discourse arose that the Board.
To the second Juror his dep.t saith that the said Richard Chambers did in his dep.t hearing then and there use these words following (viz.t) that there was noe plaine of the words where the marchants were so provoked and wronged as in England And that in Turkey they were more incouraged And that the defendt was in his dep.t apprehension goeing on further with that Comparison, but that he was interrupted therein by some of the Lords./

3 To the third Juror his dep.t saith, that his dep.t did well proove by the gesture and suddaine stirring of the Lords upon the uttering of the foresaid words that their dep.t did apprehend them to bee spoken in an unrev-rend and malicious manner, neither could his dep.t in his owne understanding conceave otherwise of them, And the Lords and others of his mat.s Privy Councell then present did both for the matter of the words and the defendts manner of uttering them take much offence thereat and did thereupon Committ the defendt to the prison of the Marshalsea./

4. To the fourth Juror his dep.t saith that the Conference wch the Lords then had wth the said Richard Chambers was only concerning the payment of Portage Customes & other duty due upon marchandize, wch had been before before duely answered unto his ma.tie and the words aforesaid spoken by the defendt. [illegible], were
