years, $1,000 was annually spent for new books; for these four years but $500 was granted. In 1876, it was entirely withheld. For the year 1889–90, $5,000 was appropriated for additions to the library; for 1890–91, $2,500; $3,500 has been set aside for books for 1891–92. The following table shows the money appropriated and the number of volumes in the library from year to year:

YEAR.	PURPOSE.	APPRO- PRIATION.	NO. VOL- UMES.
1971	12 volumes of II S Desific Survey	@FO 00
1971	13 volumes of U.S. Pacific Survey
1014	Books of reference	220 30
1014	Books of reference	79 70
1874	Appropriation for library books	1.500 00	less than 1,000
1010	Books of reference	21 90
1010	Additions to library	1,030 69	1,700
1010	Additiona to library
1011	Additions to library	500 00	2,519
1010	Additions to library	500 00	2,750
1000	Additions to library	1,000 00	3,100
1000	Additions to library	1,000 00	3 844
1001	Additions to library	1,000 00	4,500
1002	Additions to library	1,000 00
1000	Additions to library	500 00	6,200
1004	Additions to library	500 00	6.500
1000	Additions to library	1,000 00	7,000
1000	Additions to library	1,000 00	7,700
1000	Additions to library	1,000 00	8,035
1000	Additions to library	1,000 00	9,207
1009	Additions to library	5,000 00	11,056
1601	Additions to library	2,500 00	12,528 $14,826$

To be sure these figures do not always tell the story one expects; as, for instance, in 1889, when the amount expended was five times the amount of any other year, it did not secure five times the number of books. The reason for this will be evident, when it is known that many of the complete sets of magazines, treatises and works of reference which were procured were out of print and expensive. It was deemed advisable to purchase these books as soon as possible, as each year they are becoming rarer and more difficult to obtain. Then, too, the increase in the number of volumes does not always show in the corresponding year of the appropriation. The volumes are not counted until placed on the shelves, and there are often delays in ordering and receiving books, especially those out of print and those that have to be imported.

We have just traced the origin of the library and the efforts made to procure books for it. Now let us follow it in its different locations, and notice the use made of it.

As has before been stated, the library had its location at the outset in the first building, on the second floor in the southwest room. It was a small room and made but a slight impression on the students. One of the alumni, who was then a student in the advanced classes, remembers using some of the few books in the library, but more especially books placed there by Chancel-

