

1873 of University of Kansas.

Special
Meeting
Jan 30

Courses of Instruction

The Regular Courses of Instruction given in the University are three, viz.: 1st a Classical Course; 2nd, a General Scientific Course; 3rd, a Course in Civil & Topographical Engineering.

Students, whose circumstances prevent them from taking a complete course, are allowed the privilege of taking such a select course as they are found, an examination to be able to pursue with advantage.

Faculty

The Faculty employed to teach the numerous branches included in the above courses, comprises the following instructors, viz.:

John Fraser, Chancellor and President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy, salary $3000.00

David W. Robinson, Prof. of Latin, Law & Lit., salary; $1800.00

Frank H. Snow, Prof. of Nat. Hist. & Meteorology, salary $1800.00

Fredrick W. Bardsell, Prof. Math. & Astronomy; salary $1800.00

E. P. Leonard, Prof. of Mod. Languages, salary $1800.00

D. O. Kellogg, jr., Prof. of History and Eng. Law & Lit.; sal $1800.00

Fred. E. Stephens, Prof. of Experimental Physics & Mechanics, salary $1800.00

S. W. G. Schimonsky, Prof. of Engineering and Industrial Drawing, $1800.00

X. Byron C. Smith, Prof. of Greek Law & Lit., salary $1800.00

Albert Newman, <sup>M.D.</sup> special instructor in Human anatomy and Physiology, and Hygiene, salary $600.00

J. E. Battell special instructor in vocal music, salary $400.00

Instructor in Chemistry, Physics & Mechanics

These sciences are at present taught by one professor, who, in consequence of the increase in the number of students and classes under his care, has far more work upon his hands than one instructor can properly attend to. The Board, therefore, at a meeting held 30th January, ult., unanimously voted that the work of instruction